

Mary Meyer Imhoff Elected Alumnae President at Reunion

Mary Meyer Imhoff, Davenport, was elected president of the Alumnae association at the Reunion held at Clarke Aug. 27, 28 and 29. She succeeds Mary Loneragan Rhomberg, Dubuque.

Other newly-elected officers are: Bonnie Hogan, Chicago, 1st vice president; Catharine Moran O'Malley, Chicago, 2nd vice president; Florence Tierney Cox, Butte, Mont., 3rd vice president; Anne Coryn, Moline, Ill., corresponding secretary; Mary Baxter Hickey, Dubuque, recording secretary and Dorothy Stark, Cedar Rapids, treasurer.

The reunion was well attended. Highlights of the three days included a birthday breakfast, open house in the newly renovated community room, the Class Day Dinner, the Mass of Thanksgiving offered by the Most Rev. Bishop Edward A. Fitzgerald on Sunday morning and the alumnae luncheon on Sunday noon at which the Most Rev. Archbishop Henry P. Rohlman was a guest.

Style Show

Following the Class Day Dinner on Saturday evening, the Dubuque Clarke club presented a style show featuring "A Century of Collegians." Special awards were distributed to Wilda Bustamante Knight, Puerto Rico, for having come the greatest distance; to Minnie Meyer Becker, president of the Dubuque Clarke club, for having the largest family; to Eileen McQuillen Lehman, for being the most recent bride; to the class of 1939, for the largest representation present. (Late arrivals brought the class of 1934's number to a tie).

Honor Jubilarians

At the Sunday noon luncheon, Bishop Fitzgerald presented a gold rosary to Nellie Mullen McCann, Chicago, a golden jubilarian. Other members of the 1897 and 1898 classes are: Sister Mary Rosalia (Rose Lawrence), Santa Ana, California, who visited Clarke earlier in the summer but could not remain for Reunion; Esther Cheshire, Anamosa; Maude McCabe, Chicago, and Gertrude Henry Murphy, Milwaukee, who were unable to be present.

'48 Graduate Wins College Poetry Contest

Margaret Keefe Wahl, class of '48, Kappa Gamma Pi member, won first prize in the Catholic School Press Association contest for the best college poem. Her entry was entitled "Message from Italy."

Association Adds 2 New Clubs To Roster

Whether you live in a large city or in a small town you can start a Clarke Club. All you need is one other Clarke alumna.

The two newly organized clubs, the Minneapolis-St. Paul club, and the Blairstown, Iowa, club are thriving on their formula, according to reports received from them.

In Twin Cities

Officers of the Twin Cities club are Frances Mitchell Miller, president; Suzanne Cosgrove, vice president, and Audrey Black, secretary. Anne Hammes is the correspondent.

Members met for Mass and Holy Communion at St. Olaf's Church on Oct. 3. Breakfast was served at the Curtis Hotel. Eighteen members were present. Arrangements were made by Mary Catherine Laughlin.

A Christmas luncheon at Young Quinlan's Tea Room will highlight the next meeting on Dec. 4.

Youngest Club

The correspondent says, "We are all pleased with 'our baby,' the Clarke College club in the Twin Cities. Alumnae up here went to Clarke sometime between 1914 and 1948, but we are all agreed that our club has a healthy start and looks promising."

A club in which every member has an office is the unusual situation at Blairstown. Jeanne Ryan is president, Elaine Schlebecker is vice president and Charlotte Jones is secretary-treasurer.

Enthusiasm makes up for the size of the group. Interesting activities are reported. A bicycle hike and wienner roast were held before Hallowe'en. Guests were invited.

The Blairstown trio is also helping to establish a young peoples' choir at St. John's Church.

Clarke College Alumnae Association, November 19, 1948

Number 1

President's Message

In the name of the officers of the National Alumnae Association, I send greetings to you in this first issue of The Clarke Alumna for 1948-49. May the year be a happy, satisfying one, rich in blessings and accomplishments.

You will be pleased to know that your alumna office now has a regular, part-time, paid secretary. Her services will greatly simplify and facilitate alumnae operations. In a group as scattered as ours, with more than 1200 members in 48 states, it will now be possible to send all general mailings directly from the alumna office. The local clubs will also be greatly benefited in that the office will serve as a clearing house for information pertaining to club memberships, addresses and activities.

We are happy to announce that Miss Helen Holmberg, Dubuque, is editor of The Alumna.

In order to broaden the sources of information to The Alumna, it is hoped that each local club president will again appoint a correspondent to report activities during the year. We now have an editor. We have secretarial help. But the news must come from you. Please, keep it coming.

MARY MEYER IMHOFF,

President

Dubuque Clarke Club Meet on Mission Sunday

Members of the Dubuque Clarke College Alumnae association met at the college for Mass and breakfast Sunday morning, Oct. 24. The Rev. Wilfred Kress offered Mass in the Chapel of the Sacred Heart and was a guest at the breakfast served in the tea room.

Lillian McDonald Freund and Eileen McQuillen Lehman were co-chairmen of the breakfast.

Minnie Meyer Becker, president of the association, presided at the short business meeting. Sister Mary Anne Leone, B.V.M., president of Clarke, welcomed the alumnae. Mary Meyer Imhoff, Davenport, national president of the association, was a guest of honor and spoke a few words of greeting.

The newly-elected officers are: first vice president, Mary Dalzell; second vice president, Eileen Lehman; recording secretary, Marion Smith Thill; treasurer, Helen Holmberg; corresponding secretary, Anne Mae Shiel; chairman of the activity committee, Rosemary Sievers Ryan.

Executive Board

A meeting of the Executive Board of the Clarke College Alumnae association will be held here next Sunday, Nov. 21. Sessions are scheduled for 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Entire College to Participate In Christmas Presentation

Choral practice and play casting have already begun for the all-college presentation of The Cantic of the Nativity to be given under the auspices of the drama and music departments Dec. 16.

The play, written by M. Rene-Richard Becher and translated by Sister Mary Constantia, B.V.M., head of the French department, who procured the play when she was abroad last year, will have its American premiere in the Clarke production. Five tableaux, a prologue and an epilogue will be presented.

Holds Music Award

Musical interludes have been taken from the Paris production and were composed by Mlle. Henriette Roger, who is the holder of the Prix de Rome, highest musical honor given in Europe.

The chorus parts of the play will be sung by the Glee Club and the entire student body.

The production will follow the annual Candelighting ceremony which traditionally takes place the night before the students leave for Christmas vacation. The entire program will serve to convey Clarke's Christmas message to the people of Dubuque.

Feminine Cast

The feminine roles in the play have already been announced. Kathryn McCarthy will be the Blessed Mother. Therese Weigand will play the role of Elizabeth. The Woman will be Joan Buckley, the Beggar, Rosemary Rapp, and the Traveler Angel, Adorine Malloy. The Shepherds are Shirley Beddoes, Mildred Roth, Barbara Young,

Ann Donavon Has Feminine Lead In Loras Play

Ann Donavon, Chicago, senior drama student, will play the feminine lead in the Loras college production, Lute Song, which will be presented next Sunday and Monday evenings in the Loras auditorium.

Other Clarkites in the cast are seniors Mary Williams and Marilyn Ryan, Dubuque.

Lute Song, translated by Sidney Howard, is an ancient Chinese tale of wifely fidelity. Robert Emerich, a member of the Loras faculty, is directing the play.

Charlotte Henry, Jean Prebis and Mary McQuaid.

Loras students will take the parts of St. Joseph, Isaias the Prophet, The Town Crier, the Innkeeper and the Boy.

Ann Donavon and Jane Mitchell, senior drama students, will assist the director, Miss Laura Wright.

Joan Geisler will be in charge of lighting, and Ann Peaslee will head the costume committee.

Man Has Dignity, Fenton Moran Tells Audience

"Our faith in the human dignity of man must be based on love of God and love of man," Fenton Moran told his audience when he presented the first lecture in the current series Nov. 9 in the college auditorium.

Mr. Moran, executive secretary of the William J. Kerby Foundation at the Catholic University of America, illustrated his talk with examples from his wartime experiences. The medieval ideal of the exalted destiny of man he contrasted with the manifestation of the complete elimination of man's human dignity in the Nazi concentration camp. He used this example to indicate the result of the loss of faith and reverence.

"If the Catholic belief in man's dignity carries no weight in an unbelieving world," the speaker remarked, "we may turn to secular sources." As the most reliable of these sources Mr. Moran pointed to the Declaration of Independence.

"The atrocities of the last war," Mr. Moran insisted, "serve as examples of the danger which arises when these 'self-evident truths' are ignored."

"We are forced to make a choice between faith in man as a creature of worth under God and adoption of the law of the jungle, survival of the fittest."

As a special warning to college students, Mr. Moran reminded them of their responsibilities. "You as women will have in your hands the power to direct the destiny of the world," he told them. "You must have an active faith in man's dignity, and you must put this faith into active practice."

Beat Until Frothy . . .

Seventh and eighth grade students at St. Anthony's school will be assets to their mothers this Thanksgiving after their cooking lessons from Clarke home economics majors. Above, Teddy Muir demonstrates the art of beating an egg while Marianne Anderson and Jane Ann

12 Students Get 'Behind the Desk' As Teachers

The current teacher shortage may be somewhat alleviated next September when Clarke seniors take their places on the other side of the desk. With an eye to the future, 12 students have already begun their practice teaching in the Dubuque schools.

History majors Virginia Bartels and Therese Tressel are teaching their favorite subject at St. Anthony's school and at St. Joseph's academy.

Junior high school students at St. Anthony's are also learning how to cook from home economics majors Jane Ann Daidsaver, Colleen Best and Marianne Anderson.

Senorita Marilyn Ryan is teaching the girls at St. Joseph's academy how to sing Spanish songs as well as speak the language.

Jane Mitchell, Ann Donavon and Mary McGinnis are doing their student teaching in the speech department at the Visitation academy. Also at the academy is junior Mary Fran Jaeger who is teaching art.

Although their major is English, Jean Jungels is teaching Latin at St. Joseph's academy and Lucille Mullen is teaching clothing there. Mary Hoyman, home economics major, also teaches clothing at St. Joseph's.

Clarke Musicians Present Recital In Waterloo

Myrna Johnson and Maryann Nachowicz, pianists, and Helen Tegler, soprano, will present a recital at Our Lady of Victory high school in Waterloo next Wednesday morning.

Miss Johnson will play three numbers, Elegie by Rachmanioff, Rhapsody in B Minor by Brahms, and The Juggler by Toch.

Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody, Bach's Prelude in C Sharp Minor and Chopin's Nocturne in F Minor comprise Miss Nachowicz' solo program. Together with Miss Johnson she will play Khacaurian's Sabre Dance in a two-piano arrangement.

Miss Tegler's vocal selections will include The Hills of Home and several numbers by Victor Herbert.

The three girls will be the guests of Mary Joynt '48 Tuesday evening.

played by Virginia Sander and Dolores Montavon and the drums by Ione Michel.

Mary Virginia Schuster is the pianist.

Rust College Quartette Sings Negro Spirituals

Four singing representatives of Rust college presented a program of Negro songs Nov. 11 in the Assembly hall.

In introducing the program, Russell Waters, director of the group, told the student audience that the Negro spiritual is one of the greatest American contributions to folk song.

The quartet sang spirituals such as The Trumpet of the Lord and Give Me That Old-Time Religion, and several humorous numbers.

Sodalists Procure Advent Wreath

In keeping with the church's emphasis on liturgy, sodalists will place an Advent wreath in the dining hall this year to symbolize the four weeks of Advent. Janet Mullen, Peggy Sweeney and Jean Stenson will be in charge of the evergreen wreath.

A special Advent prayer will be said before grace at the evening meal, and individual cards explaining the significance of the Advent wreath will be distributed.

Labarum Shows New Face; Autumn Issue Out Monday

The fall issue of the Labarum, the Clarke literary magazine, will make its appearance next Monday in new attire.

Classic Roman lettering in literary review format will be printed in magenta on the French grey cover. On the interior of the front cover will be an explanation of the name Labarum.

The new cover is an adaptation of the winning design submitted by junior Bettie Rausch in the contest open to all art students.

Essay On Merton

"Man Against the Mountain," the lead essay, by senior editor Lucille Mullen, is a timely biographical sketch on Thomas Merton, whose recently released book, Seven Storey Mountain, is being widely discussed.

A critical article on Graham Greene's The Heart of the Matter by Helen McMahon, entitled "The Crux of the Matter," will be of interest to those who have read the book and to those still on the waiting list.

Chinese Students Write

A special feature will be three essays by Chinese students at Clarke. Sylvia Tseng writes of her "Chungking Childhood," Catherine Tsou gives an account of her acceptance by Clarke and the departure from Shanghai, and Christine Chen tells of the boat trip to America.

Freshman Elizabeth Bartels has "made the Labarum" with her humorous essay "Behind the Mona Lisa."

Jeanne Heitkamp, veteran Labarum story writer, contributes a psychological narrative. Joan Delaney's story, "Snake Bite," in letter form, and "Almost Pink Petunia," a story of adolescent frustration by Mary Devine Bren-

Radio Club Gives Special Program For Thanksgiving

The Clarke Radio club will present a special Thanksgiving program for children tomorrow morning at 10:45. The script will be narrated by Gloria Sable. Virginia Brunk will sing several selections, accompanied at the piano by Maryann Nachowicz.

Last Saturday, the club presented the story of the "Three Dwarfs" as the third in the current series of Children's programs heard each Saturday morning at 10:30 over WKBB. Moya Lagen, who is in charge of the programs, directed last week's show. Maribeth DeWitt played the part of the mistreated Helen. Mary McGinnis portrayed the cruel stepmother and Nancy Lingo was her wicked daughter.

The three dwarfs were Marianne Anderson, Rosemary Rapp and Terry Weigand. Jane Mitchell was the prince who fell in love with the beautiful Helen.

nan, balance the fiction section with humor.

Two sonnets are included in the poetry section: "Conclusion" by Joan Delaney, and "The Unknown" by Norae Dennison. Also appearing are poems by newcomers to the Labarum, Dorothy Newburgh and Charlene Vorwald. These are entitled, respectively, "Second Sight" and "Russian Sky." Eunice Shackelford contributes "Mother Clarke Praying" and Moya Lagen, "Youth."

The review section, under the supervision of review editor Mary Helen Oktanski, has been enlarged to include reviews of art, drama, and music as well as literature.

Reviews Play

In keeping with the enlargement, Pauline Renier has criticized the play The Winslow Boy, by Terence Rattigan, and Phillis Frazier writes of the exhibit of animal sculpture by Anna Hyatt Huntington, famous woman sculptor, which was on view in the Clarke art gallery in October.

The Gathering Storm, Winston Churchill's memoirs, is reviewed by Mary Redus. Cry, the Beloved Country, by Alan Paton, dealing with the race problem, is competently handled by Dolores Montavon.

Lorraine Savicz gives a critical analysis of Nevil Shute's new novel, No Highway. A book of Willa Cather's short stories, The Old Beauty, receives Peggy Sullivan's attention, and Maryann Nachowicz reviews The Three Brothers by McLaverty.

The frontispiece was drawn by Jeanne Heitkamp. Other illustrations are by Bettie Rausch.

Always Room for One More . . .

was sophomore Shirley Weis' beaming reaction to the news that she has a new sister, the tenth child in the family. Shirley's friends, always anxious to be helpful, have been suggesting names for the new arrival. Among the suggestions are Beatrice Weis (just call her Bee Weis for short), Vera Weis and Other Weis.

Only 35 More Days . . .

until Christmas, and probably most of us have done nothing more than think about our Christmas shopping. But our four Chinese students amazed the college when they were found wrapping their gifts for home Nov. 1. And they weren't being eager-beaverish about it—the gifts had to be sent that early if their families were to receive them by Dec. 25.

U, Rah, Rah, Wisconsin . . .

was practically all Pat Jans, Mary Ellen Flad, Katie McCarthy, Barb Hutchinson and Leona Ryan could gasp this week after they returned from Madison where they were spectators at the Wisconsin-Marquette game. And Gloria Sable was among the thousands cheering the Irish on to victory at the Notre Dame-Northwestern game last Saturday.

Dog-gone . . .

Perhaps you haven't heard about the dog who appeared in Sister Mary Joseph's classroom one day last week—just in time for Bible class. He seemed bright enough but Sister wasn't sure he was registered for the course so Tam Mackin whistled him out the door and down the stairs. Another dog's ambition to educate himself thwarted in the bud!

Out for a Coke . . .

was what Hector the Hamster should have hung on the lid of his cage when he took French leave from the science department last week. For two days the faculty and students searched for Hector—from the top floor of the science hall to the basement. And finally a message came from the residence hall: "There's a queer looking animal sitting down in the coke room. He says his name is Hector."

Signs of the Times . . .

While MFCH residents moaned about the electric EMPTY sign which greeted them when they wanted to feed nickels to the coke machine, they also chuckled over the note which Sister Mary Roberdette scotch-taped directly beneath EMPTY. It read: "... as are all the cases next to the coke machine. When they are filled with empty bottles, the coke machine will be filled." And out from the closets and nooks and crannies of the girls' rooms came bottles, bottles and more bottles.

See Amazing America First . . .

read all the travel bureau's signs, and Jackie Sullivan seems determined to follow that advice. Or at least she's going to see part of this country, on an extended Thanksgiving vacation. Jackie is planning on taking an educational tour to California, with highlights of the trip including the Notre Dame-Southern Cal game.

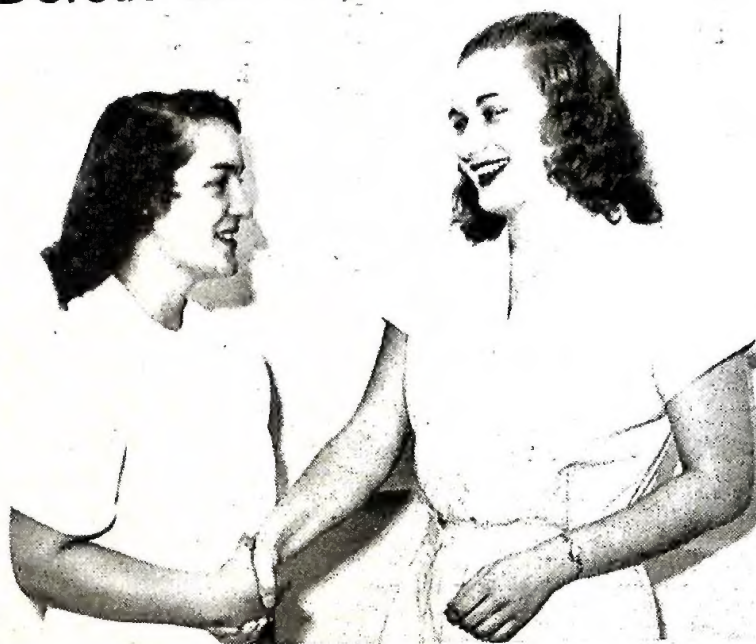

Pussy Cat, Pussy Cat . . .

you aren't the only one who can get yarn all tangled up. Ask Judy Birdsall. She was going merrily up the stairs of the residence hall, knitting away, Saturday night and when she reached fourth floor she discovered she had dropped the ball of yarn on Cloister. That must have been a lot of yarn to have to wind up again.

Let's Give a Cheer . . .

not for the varsity, this time, but for the cheerleaders. And of course that means the eight peppy, enthusiastic, never-say-die, girls who spurred their teams on to bigger and better scores during the volleyball tournament. All the teams couldn't win, but Janet Blomgren, Mary Green, Teresa Ann Aid, Jacqueline Shank, Moya Lagen, Janet Mullen, Pat Lalley and Virginia Tarrant are real winners.

Frosh Win Volleyball Trophy; Defeat Seniors in Final Game

Monica Breitbach, Dubuque, senior captain, congratulates Jean Prebis, Chicago, freshman captain.

Exhausted seniors nursed their aching muscles and gave three cheers for the youthful freshmen who out-volleyed them in the final game of the annual intramural volleyball tournament last Monday evening.

After splitting the honors in the first two games of the championship set, the senior and freshman teams fought valiantly in the final game but the seniors quickly bowed out to the freshman with a score of 15-4.

Champion Team

With Jean Prebis as captain, members of the freshman team were Alice Woods, Jane Greteman, Mary Freymann, Joanne Brady, Jane Walsh, Kathryn Leonard, Rosemarie Van Dyck, Dolores Stayer, Helen Harosinski, Rosemary Martin, Janaan Noonan, Bonnie Lee Haberer, and Audrey Theisen.

The senior team, champions of last year, were led by Captain Monica Breitbach. Team members were Rosemary Wiltgen, Mary Hoyman, Jane Ann Davidsaver, Therese Tressel, Lucille Lee, Mary Virginia Hilvers, Verma Oberbroeckling, Ethel Lassance, Marianne Anderson, and Veronica Goodall.

Third honors in the tourney went to Walsh.

June Dolemba Is Chairman of Holiday Dance

June Dolemba has been appointed chairman of the second annual Chicago Clarke Dance to be held during the Christmas holidays. The dance is sponsored this year by the Student Leadership Council under the chairmanship of members of the junior class, and is open to all Clarkites living or visiting in the Chicagoland area.

While the date is yet to be announced, committees have been appointed. Miss Dolemba and Dorothea Koval will secure room reservations, and Virginia Wiltgen and Janet Mullen will contact and engage an orchestra.

Ticket sales will be managed by Rosalie Glanz, and Patricia Murphy will issue invitations to chaperones.

'Think, Watch, Do,' Fr. Holden Urges Student Leaders

Stressing the need for thought, observation and action in leadership, the Reverend Vincent F. Holden, C.S.P., New York, spoke to members of the Student Affairs Forum and Freshman Board at the second annual Leadership Workshop last weekend. He pointed out the need for active participation in all school activities and the necessity of building up a school spirit.

"Teach students to think," was Father Holden's message to the faculty whom he addressed in a special session early Friday evening.

"Education is not a conglomeration of knowledge, an accumulation of facts," Father insisted. "Students must develop the ability to think and to evaluate things in the light of their faith."

In the evening session for the students, Father Holden presided at an informal discussion in which the problems peculiar to Clarke's student government were considered.
